SEVERE FIGHTING SHOWS REBELS GAINING NOW

ADVICES FROM SONORA SAY THAT REBELS DEFEATED
THE FEDERAL FORCES
IN THAT LOCALITY.

OTHER LOSSES REPORTED

Losses Aggregating Over a Thousand Are Reported From Several Other Places Including
Burning of Federal City.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
El Paso, Tex., March 31.—Advices to the Herald from Magdalena, Sonora, by mail, declare Monday's battle reported from Acun Prieta as a victory for the rebels, was really a victory for the rebels.

The Herald's correspondent says the rebels ambushed the federal troops at San Rafael instead of the rebels being ambushed, or taken unawares, as officially reported, and the federalists were driven to take refuge in a mill at Santa Rosa, where the rebels surrounded them.

Reinforcements then came out from Hermosillo and the battle was fought on Wednesday when the latter was written. There were no doctors or trained help of any kind on the field, and as men are shot they lie where they happen to fall or, if able, crawl away.

Another Report.
El Paso, Tex., March 31.—A stubbornly fought and bloody battle between three hundred insurgents and two hundred federalists has raged around Santa Barbara, southwest of the city of Chihuahua, since Wednesday morning. Both sides have sent for reinforcements, but these had not arrived at last accounts.

HOARD RESIGNS PLACE AS REGENT; M'GOVERN TALKS

On University Board and Much Speculation
Is Current As to McGovern's
Choice for Successor.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, March 31.—The resignation of W. D. Hoard as regent of the state board of university regents has made a vast amount of speculation here as to who will be chosen to succeed Mr. Hoard. Just before leaving for Milwaukee today the governor stated no one had as yet been selected.

McGovern's Statement.
Milwaukee, March 31.—Following the charges set forth by Ex-Gov. Hoard in a letter to Gov. McGovern resigning as a member of the state board of university, in which he stated that "intently the board has been reconstructed on the basis and for the main purpose of political partisanship for the La Follette faction in politics," the governor today issued the following statement denying the charge and forwarding the resignation of Ex-Gov. Hoard's letter of resignation.

"I am sorry that in resigning Mr. Hoard used language so offensive that I cannot pass it by without notice. His charge is that the board of university regents has lately been reconstructed upon the basis and for the main purpose of political partisanship for the La Follette faction in politics. This, if true, is a serious charge.

After setting forth the names of regent appointees to show that they were, for the most part, non-official holders, and that the charge was unjust, the statement continued: "I do not know ex-Governor Hoard well, but believe unjust, personal criticism, such as this, has not been a personal characteristic of his in the past. But, fortunately, he is now ill and advanced in age. For these reasons there should be but sympathy. It will be with no feeling of resentment at the language used in presenting his resignation, therefore, that I shall accept it."

SHOW APPRECIATION OF TEAM'S VICTORY

High School Celebrates Victory of Basketball Five This Morning.

Owing to the victory of the local J. H. S. basketball team over Fond du Lac, the students went wild with joy this morning. All the old school songs and yells were resounded and several new and original ones were invented. The school building resounded with cheers from one end to the other.

For the morning exercises Supt. Hull told of the great game the Janesville boys put up. The great ability to "come back," as the team illustrated it, he said, should be cultivated in the school duties as well as in athletics.

In general the school is in a very happy mood and even the faculty have forgotten to wear "long faces."

LAW-MAKERS RETURN TO WASHINGTON FOR THE EXTRA SESSION

Senators and Representatives Gather for Consideration of Canadian Reciprocity Agreement.

Washington, D. C., March 31.—With the opening of the extra session called to act on the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada but two days from far and near arrived in Washington today by every train. Buckeye trucks, overloaded with trunks, proceeded to the people of the streets that lawmaking is about to be resumed. The boarding house keepers and the restaurant proprietors again have put on smiles, for they are promised good business during a part of the summer.

As this will be an altogether new Congress, the Sixty-second, a complete reorganization will be necessary. The swearing in of members and other work of a similar character probably will occupy the whole of the first day. Wednesday is likely to be devoted to the reading of the message of President Taft's message, which, according to common belief, will be confined to two subjects—Canadian reciprocity and the tariff commission.

After that the lawmakers should be able to get down to business immediately, providing the Democratic plans for the organization of the house go through as smoothly as the party leaders anticipate.

Apart from the importance of the prospective legislation, the session promises to be a very important one, principally by reason of the fact that the Democrats are to be the ruling power in the house after sixteen continuous years of control of that body by the Republican party. The dynasty of Reed, Henderson and Cannon has passed and the scepter now passes to united hands. New rules of procedure, the result of revolution in the past congress, are to be tried out and the question of the movement is whether military power in legislation is to be curtailed still further.

The new congress contains 141 new members—129 senators and 122 representatives. The proportion of the two parties in both houses has undergone great changes. In the Sixty-first Congress the senate was composed of 59 Republicans and 33 Democrats, the house of 319 Republicans and 172 Democrats. In the house this majority is completely reversed. The Democrats now number 227, the Republicans 122, while there is no Republican in the senate the change was almost sweeping, but given nine members so that they now number 42 and the Republicans 50.

The changes in the membership of the senate are the greatest that have taken place at any time since the seceding Southern States sent new senators immediately after the close of the war. In the upper house a score of new faces, or more than a fifth of the whole body. Of these about one-third are Republicans and the remainder Democrats.

Of the 122 new members of the house, seventy-eight are Democrats, forty-three are Republicans, and one is a Social Democrat. Of the Republicans, thirty-five are taking the place of other Republicans, either regular or insurgent, and eight are taking places previously held by Democrats. Of the seventy-eight new Democrats, twenty-three are succeeding other Democrats, while fifty-five have places which in the Sixty-first Congress were held by Republicans. The Social Democrat, Victor Berger of Wisconsin, also succeeds a Republican.

The attitude of the new senate to reciprocity with Canada, shows no action on the matter was taken up by the Sixty-first Congress, cannot be forecasted with certainty. There is little doubt, however, that the lower house of the new congress will be as favorable to reciprocity as it was under the old Congress. At the last session when the house voted for reciprocity, the vote for it was 221 to 92. Of the 260 members of the old house who are also members of the new one, 171 voted for reciprocity and 55 against it, while the remaining 174 members of the house, but with only twenty-two of the 122 new members that majority would be attained. And from all indications the new majority for reciprocity in the house will be as decisive as the old, if not more so. It is to be noted, however, that of the Democratic representatives who voted against the measure, Congressmen Estep, Dismore, Pugh, Webb and Hammond, were returned, while of the 87 Republicans opposed only 50 came back.

SCHURZ MEMORIAL DEDICATED TODAY

Endowment of German Professorship
In Honor of Great German-American Celebrated At Madison.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 31.—The establishment of the Carl Schurz Memorial Professorship with a present endowment of $20,000 and an ultimate one of twice that amount, was celebrated at the University of Wisconsin this afternoon with exercises in Lathrop Hall. Addresses were made by Prof. Max Friedlander of the University of Berlin, this year Harvard exchange professor, Prof. Ernst Haenel, of the University of Kiel, this year Kaiser Wilhelm exchange professor at Columbia university, and President Charles R. Van Hise of the university.

The memorial foundation fund was presented by Gen. Frederick C. Winkler, Milwaukee, president of the Carl Schurz Memorial Association, and was accepted on behalf of the regents by James F. Trotterman, '81, president of the regents.

The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred by President Van Hise upon Prof. Friedlander and Prof. Haenel, the two visiting German exchange professors.

Among those who attended the celebration were German consul-general Gieseler of Chicago, lieutenant-governor Morris, Prof. Guenther Jacoby of the University of Goettingen, Emil von Schilling of Milwaukee, and Ernst Fink, Robert Wild, Henry C. Schenck, all of Milwaukee, and Emil Harpell, Manitowish.

Carl Schurz served as a regent of the University of Wisconsin from 1879 to 1882. In 1905 a year before his death, the University of Wisconsin conferred on him the degree of doctor of laws and he delivered the commencement address.

More Gifts To University To Follow
That the Carl Schurz Professorship, but the first of the free contributions of the people of the state to the university, was the declaration of President Van Hise in his opening address.

"When in the future, state universities have numerous and well-endowed chairs, like the older endowed universities, gifts from their former students will also flow to them in volume," continued President Van Hise. "There are many lines in which the state universities, as yet, have not found adequate support. Scholarships, fellowships, loan funds, research professorships, student buildings, all furnish ideal purposes to which to devote funds for those wishing to return to the public some portion of their wealth, gained under the liberal conditions in America for obtaining and developing the natural resources of the nation."

Both Citizens and Alumni To Contribute.
"Gifts to the state universities, however, are not confined to the alumni. A state university, which has used its opportunities wisely and wisely to serve the public, is felt by the millions of the people of the state to be theirs. There is a mutual responsiveness between the people of the state and the university, which cannot be said to exist with the same degree in reference to any endowed institution. A natural consequence of this sympathetic responsiveness, this feeling of ownership upon the part of the people, will be that gifts to the state university in the future will not be deferred exclusively, or perhaps even mainly, from the alumni."

"Gifts will come from people in all parts of the state. In a small way, such gifts have begun to flow to the University of Wisconsin, but the professorship, which we celebrate today, is the most notable illustration of the principle. The movement for the foundation originated among the citizens of the state, the great majority of whom had no direct connection with the university. It arose from the patriotic impulse of those who are connected with two great nations—Germany, the land of the fathers, and America, the land of their adoption—now their own land. They desired a memorial which should connect Germany and America through the indefinite future by the exchange of ideas, hopes, and aspirations."

SCHOOL INSPECTION BILL IS AMENDED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 31.—A bill for medical inspection of school children that will have removed from the objections strenuously offered by the Christian Scientists will be reported into the assembly soon by the committee on public health and sanitation, as a result of the two public hearings that have been held upon pending bills. It will be so drawn that the objection of any parent will exempt the latter's child from such inspection, which is intended primarily to discover adenoids, enlarged tonsils or diseases of the eyesight or hearing.

Even this bill, however, probably will be opposed by the lobby of the Christian Scientists and others who have been so active against pending measures.

The last hearing on the proposition yesterday afternoon developed some lively debate, during which one Scientist speaker, insinuated that the medical profession are increasing their business. To this Dr. C. A. Harper, the assemblyman from Madison, replied that if the bill is not passed the work of the physicians will be increased a hundred fold by the growth of diseases caused by such defects as the bill is intended to prevent.

The new bill will apply only to cities, and this will remove much of the opposition to the original proposition.

Equal activities was displayed by representatives of the brewing interests against the Gottle bill to permit the collection of damages in a civil action against any saloonkeeper who contributes to the drunkenness of a person who as a result works harm or injury to a dependent. This law is in force in Illinois and many other states. Attorney John P. Baker appeared for the bill on behalf of the Anti-Saloon league and C. A. A. McGee, Henry P. Coehnen, W. L. Austin and a number of saloonkeepers. All of Milwaukee, and C. F. Lamb of Madison spoke against it. Assemblyman Gottle provided some new statistics as to the number of arrests in various cities of the state for drunkenness.

The committee report on the bill probably will be divided, as the committee originally was "backed" in order that it might never agree on excessive measures, but there will be an interesting fight on the floor of the assembly.

DAMAGE CASE WAS DISMISSED TODAY

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Fond du Lac, March 31.—The damage case seeking to recover $95,000 for alleged breach of contract, was dismissed today by Judge Turner of Milwaukee, who found in favor of the Voex-Holman company of this city and adverse to the International Humana Food company of Chicago. The Humana company sought to recover the value of a contract negotiated by A. M. Voex, president of the Voex-Holman company, unknown, it was alleged, and without the sanction of the directors of the defendant company. The contract was for the purchase of 600 tons of dried banana food at a cost of $122,000. The discovery that the contract had been entered into was accidentally made by the directors. The court held that Voex was not authorized to enter into the contract; that he concealed his action from the directors, and acted independently of the company. The case has been stubbornly fought in the courts for the last five years.

DUDLEY COMPANY IS STILL MAKING GOOD

Gave Pleading Production Last Evening and Will Appear in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" Tonight. The Dudley Stock company made good again Thursday night with their production of "Hello Bill" at the Myers theatre. Mr. Dudley, as "Bill," was a scream, and the production of Mr. Dudley's versatility has been no flatterer's compliment, as his work last night shows he can handle light comedy equally as well as the heavier roles, and at no time during the performance did he degenerate from his strict line of comedy, which has so often been the case with actors who wish to get a laugh. Ethel Roman as Mrs. Fuller, (Bill's wife) played the part with convincing fondness and appeared in some striking costumes. The other members of the company also did excellent work, and the towns were by the ladies showed careful selection regarding harmonious blending of colors. Tonight is the treat of the week—"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," with all the weird light effects and scenic embellishments. Mr. Dudley's rapid transformation from the genial doctor to the deformed, hunchback Hyde is the quickest on record. Children's matinee Saturday afternoon.

ANNUAL MEETING OF COMMERCIAL CLUB LAST NIGHT

Officers For Coming Year Elected, and Matters of Importance Discussed At Gathering At Myers Hotel. Members of the Commercial club gathered at the Myers Hotel last evening for their regular monthly meeting which was also the annual gathering for the election of officers. Following the dinner which was served in the Ordinary of the hotel the meeting was called to order by President George S. Parker and the club proceeded to the election of officers as follows: President—James Ellfeld. V. President—George G. Sutherland. Secretary—H. B. Olshay. Treasurer—J. J. Mount. Upon taking the chair, Mr. Ellfeld expressed his appreciation of the honors which the club has conferred upon him and then opened the discussion for the evening by bringing up the matter of the recent prosecutions of the saloonkeepers, who were alleged to have kept their places open on Sunday. Mr. Ellfeld asked why conclusions had not been obtained in these cases, and whether it was the fault of the chief of police, city attorney or of the evidence presented. Various members discussed the question and in the opinion of H. B. Olshay it would be better to have the saloons open on Sundays at certain hours than the present violations. He believed that the law and ordinances governing the matter were lax and if this was so, new ones should be drafted and passed which would effect a remedy. To the question presented by V. J. Weber, as to what evidence is necessary to convict in the Sunday closing case, Judge Ellfeld stated that the evidence in the two cases which were tried were not sufficient. In his opinion no jury could have convicted on the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution. T. S. Nolan was of the belief that Sunday opening of the saloons until the hour of six or seven in the evening would result in a more orderly town. He believed that this course which had been successfully tried in the cities of Watertown, Jefferson and Madison would produce good results. He believed that if the saloons were taken down as soon as the saloons were closed, it would aid materially in enforcing the law. The employers liability law was also the subject for considerable discussion. John Gahner, who talked before the legislative committee which handled the bill, stated as his opinion that with the amendment as passed by the senate the law would not be as bad as anticipated. Joe Weber, T. O. Howe and T. S. Nolan also took part in the discussion. P. J. Mount, treasurer of the organization presented his report for the year, which showed a prosperous financial condition with $220.00 on hand. P. H. Korst moved for a rising vote of thanks in honor of the retiring president, George S. Parker, for his efforts to make the club a success. Mr. Parker replied in a brief talk in which he spoke on the value of business courtesy in connection with the community's welfare. He gave incidents of hospitality and good fellowship accorded him in his recent western trip, by various business organizations and the favorable impression which it made upon him. Four new members were added to the roll: T. S. Nolan, Carl Buchholz, A. A. Fink and P. A. Blackman, after which the club adjourned.

gested along the line of their own experience.

Among the matters considered were children's work and how to make the children's room attractive to the young folks. The story hour was talked of and the importance of this was generally accepted. Such a Question!
Dentist—Will you have gas, madam? It rests with you.
Puritanical Patient—You don't suppose I'm going to let you grope around in the dark, do you?—Puck.

Wooden "Straight Fronts."
The wooden front corsets of George H. time were commonly worn by dandies, as shown in Hogarth's portraits. The doughty warriors of Gustavus Adolphus wore corsets to a man. Catherine de Medici loved small waists and poison. She introduced the ruff and a 13-inch waist. This monster invented a steel corset. No wonder the portraits of that day look so solemn.

When Doomed.
"With us the crime is not in detection. It's in admission. All sorts of things may be thought of you, and said of you, and even known of you, and you can bluff them out; but when you have acknowledged 'em—You're doomed."—The Inner Shrine.

Perplexities of History.
Lady Godiva was in despair. "I'd be perfectly willing to do it," she cried, with wild, staring eyes, "to please my cruel husband, if I were only sure that Laura Jean Libbey would approve."
Still she took that memorable ride, and all mankind applauded.

Says McGowan.

The Success of the Skavlem Piano Club Lies In the Value of the Piano

THAT the Skavlem Piano club is a success goes without saying. It's an overwhelming success. Far beyond our most sanguine expectations—as today nearly one-third of the 200 memberships has been taken.

But, when all is said and done—when the whole club plan and proposition has been sifted down as to what the club's success can be attributed, the one thing that stands out bolder than all the others is, the great value of the piano for the money.

The piano is worth more—so very much more—than it is being sold for. The piano is worth 3 hundred and 75 dollars. It is packed and shaken down, brimful and running over measure for 3 hundred and 75 dollars. The person who pays 3 hundred and 75 dollars for a piano so good, gets the worth of his money.

And we don't say this because hundreds of these identical pianos have been sold in this immediate section for 3 hundred and 75 dollars. Neither do we say this because other pianos no better are now daily being sold in this city for 3 hundred and 75 dollars.

We say it because it is so. We say it because it will stand the light of day on it. We say it because it will stand your investigation.

Now the club price is 2 hundred and 77 dollars and 50 cents—not 3 hundred and 75 dollars, the real worth of the piano—and our claim is, that aside from the easy terms of the club; the money back and one year's trial features; the cash rebate feature for faster payments, the valuable life insurance feature and the many other novel and attractive advantages and privileges of the club, the one feature that has contributed most to the great success of the Skavlem piano club is the fact that the people can immediately see without the slightest question of a doubt that the piano is worth a whole lot more—a hundred dollars more than we are selling it for.

For the convenience of people who cannot come in during the day the store will be open every evening until 10 o'clock.

ENTHUSIASM is the greatest asset in the business world today, and it is the enthusiasm of the makers of Kuppenheimer clothes that makes them first in the minds of thousands of fastidious and refined men.

Enthusiasm is scarce. It cannot be bought. You must feel it. It comes from belief. If you would win success, you must compel others to believe as you do. To be well thought of, to feel the part you must play in life, you must be properly dressed.

I just took out a very bad molar for a lady whose gratitude found expression by saying:

"Why, Doctor, that didn't hurt a bit. 'Why, that is a miracle! I can't believe it is really out."

This is in spite of the fact that I stood there holding up the extracted tooth. This is of daily occurrence with me. Come in, and let me perform this miracle for you.

PLAN REMODELING OF OLD BUILDING

ADDITION AND EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED BY DIRECTORS OF YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

$20,000 IS AMOUNT NEEDED

For Proposed Changes Consisting of New Dormitory, Swimming Pool, Bowling Alleys and Other Equipment.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the local Young Men's Christian Association the problem of necessary extension and improvements were discussed and it was decided to make marked changes and improvements in the present association building provided the funds can be raised. It is estimated that the changes contemplated would involve an expenditure of some $20,000 and among the things which will be done if this amount is secured are: an extension to the present dormitory building in the rear, consisting of two stories and a basement, a swimming pool, four first class bowling alleys; a remodeling of the interior of the present building; new furnishings in the dormitories and throughout the entire building; new equipment in the gymnasium and painting within and more lockers and a ventilating system.

These are the things which are needed to place the association in a position to do its best work and to accomplish the things which are being done in most of the cities of any size, through the agency of the Y. M. C. A. It is stated that while the growth of the association here in the past five years has been phenomenal, it is necessary to improve the present quarters so that they can accommodate more men in the dormitories and in the gymnasium, in order to insure a payment of expenses and an economical administration.

In a statement today Secretary J. C. Kline said, "The demand for better housing accommodations has been growing for the past four years. Many men have necessarily been turned away during the last winter. Added rooms would give an increased income and with added membership would help materially to pay the necessary expenses. About $1,500 must be raised each year by popular subscription to pay expenses. The requests to the association will come good some by an endowment for the enlargement of the building, but nothing can be realized on them except the L. J. Carlo bequest of $5,000 which is being held in trust by the directors.

"The immediate need of the association now is financial support for current expenses and on-going subscriptions to install the new improvements. What the directors are trying to work out is very economical and necessary if the young men are to be interested and kept under enjoyable and healthy surroundings. It is estimated that the necessary equipment needed at this time would not exceed over $20,000 and would be a joy to every home and a pride to every citizen of Janesville."

WERE MARRIED ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

Miss Mae Skinner of This City and John Guehring of Evansville United in Marriage.

On Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Skinner, 1223 Linden avenue, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Mae, to John Guehring of Evansville. It was a quiet, home affair and only a few friends and the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. Rev. L. A. McIntyre read the service.

The bride was attractively attired in a gown of white shirtee and carried a bouquet of white roses. Following the ceremony an excellent wedding dinner was served and the festivities closed with the congratulations and best wishes of the friends present.

The groom is a popular and well known young business man in the city of Evansville and the bride has many friends here where she was employed as cashier for the Wisconsin Telephone company. Mr. and Mrs. Guehring will make their home in Evansville where a new residence has been erected by the groom.

DEFENDANT LOST IN CASE THROUGH NON-APPEARANCE

Judge Field Dismissed Motion for Appeal From Judgment in Suit of F. W. Coon vs. Sam Tall of Edgerton.

Failure of the defendant in the case of F. W. Coon against Sam Tall, both of Edgerton, to appear, resulted in the dismissal of the case this morning when called in municipal court. The defendant's attorney made a motion for appeal from a judgment rendered in an Edgerton justice court and the motion was dismissed by Judge Field. Coon sued Tall for about ten dollars, alleged to have been due on a subscription account. The Tobacco City judge ordered a judgment in favor of the plaintiff. The case was brought to the local court on the motion for an appeal. The suit will cost the defendant in the neighborhood of one hundred dollars to settle, it is said.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH UNDER CARS

Hobo Trying to Flip Train Yesterday Afternoon Lost a Shoe But Had Very Close Call.

Due to the fact alone that he wore summer footwear, a young man, evidently a hobo, was saved from a horrible injury or death under the wheels of a freight train on the Northwestern railroad yesterday afternoon. The young man attempted to "flip" the train at the Evansville cut-off, but just as he was climbing on one of the cars, his shoe became wedged in a switch and could not be pulled out. Luckily the man wore low shoes and managed to pull his foot out of the shoe which was caught. Section men working a short distance away saw the man make the attempt to catch the train and saw him when his foot caught. They ran to the spot expecting to find the man with a leg cut off or mangled body lying on the track, but they found only the shoe there and the man waved a farewell to them with his bare foot as the train proceeded on its way.

RECEIVED

Friedrichshaven, Germany, March 31.—Count Zeppelin's new airship made a successful maiden flight here. The craft replaces the passenger airship Deutschland, the highest developed of all the famous aeronaut's models, which after a few thrilling exhibitions came to grief amid the stresses of the Teutoburgian forest June 28. The motors and the vertical steering planes of the Deutschland were saved from the wreck and utilized in the construction of her successor.

REFORM OF TRUST LAWS IS PLANNED

Attorney General Is Forging New Legal Weapon.

MOVE IS TO BE FAR-REACHING

Wickersham Seeks to Regulate All Monopolies Which Have Kept Ahead of Federal Prosecution by Organization.

Washington, March 31.—A new weapon is being forged out of the government's experience in dealing with monopolies of trade and combinations of capital, which, it was learned, Attorney General Wickersham hopes to present to congress in the belief that it will be incorporated into law.

Just what shape this proposed legislation will take has not been made known by Mr. Wickersham. Under the present laws the department of justice on several occasions has found that the statutes have become obsolete while litigation was being brought to a final decision.

Combinations of all kinds, through processes of reorganization, have managed to keep just a step ahead of federal prosecutions.

With a view of meeting the problem as it exists today and as it promises to develop, the attorney general is giving the subject deep study. Within the next few months may take place the most important steps toward regulation of combinations and monopolies since the passage of the Sherman law. Several instances of alleged combinations, which the department of justice so far has been powerless to attack because there was no law applicable to them, have been brought to the attention of the attorney general.

"Money Trust" Immune. Prominent among them is the so-called "money trust" in New York. It was pointed out that where a year ago the great financial interests of New York commonly were classified into three groups they now are popularly known as one.

The New York Clearing House association recently had unofficial notification that Attorney General Wickersham's attention had been called to its methods of business. It is understood to have been found, however, that there is apparently nothing in the business of the clearing house association which can be construed as coming under any of the laws now on the statute books.

Nevertheless, the department of justice regards with some concern the concentration of banking capital in New York.

RUSSIAN EDICT HITS JEWS

Holy Synod Issues Order Forbidding Hebrews to Bear Christian First Names in Empire.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The holy synod issued an edict prohibiting Jews bearing Christian first names.

The Holy Governing Synod of All the Russians is the highest ecclesiastical authority in the Russian church. Its chief procurator represents the emperor, who is the head of the church. The emperor has never claimed the right of deciding theological and dogmatic questions, and the procurator enjoys wide powers in church matters.

SANTA FE SCENTS GRAFTING

Discharges 62 Train Employees—Grand Jury to Look Into Their Collections of Fares.

Kansas City, Mo., March 31.—Sixty-two conductors, brakemen and porters, many of them long in the service, have just been discharged from the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad. The federal grand jury, which convenes in April, will be asked to investigate the collection of fares by some of these men. The discharged men worked on runs from Chicago to the Pacific coast and intermediate points.

Kills First Three to Pass

Hurlington, Wash., March 31.—William Weedin, a rancher of South Gracie, became violently insane, and, taking a rifle, went out on a county road and shot and killed three passers-by, who were John Hanke, William Hanke and John Ware, all of Burlington.

BOMB BLAST CAUSES PANIC

Black Hand Explodes Infernal Machine in New York, Almost at Feet of Policeman.

New York, March 31.—A black hand bomb was exploded almost beneath the coat-tails of a New York policeman.

The officer was standing at the doorway of a tenement house in First avenue. The bomb was in a cellarway not a rod from his feet. He was uninjured, although the front of the building was damaged and doors and windows were blown in.

The tenants, 29 families in all, made a wild rush for the streets, but were checked by the policeman.

The bomb, apparently deposited in the cellarway with a time fuse, was aimed at the workshop of Anthony Valenza on the ground floor. He admitted that he had received threatening letters.

John D. Rockefeller at Lakewood. Lakewood, N. J., March 31.—John D. Rockefeller is again in Lakewood this spring after an absence of three years. He will pass a few weeks golfing on his private course here.

I. C. KEYMEN VOTE TO STRIKE

Demand Men Discharged to Cut Expenses Be Taken Back—New Policy Challenged.

Chicago, March 31.—A crisis in the dispute between the Illinois Central railroad and its telegraphers employed on the entire system from Chicago to New Orleans probably will be reached today. By a referendum vote the men decided overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, unless the road grants an increase in wages of 25 per cent.

The company recently discharged 500 operators in the various dispatching offices of the system. The fight of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers now is centered on a demand that the discharged operators be reinstated.

The discharge of the men, the railroad men say, was necessary to reduce expenses. The keymen were given to understand that a general policy of retrenchment has been adopted as the result of the Interstate Commerce commission's refusal to grant increased freight rates.

Other railroads are adopting a similar policy. Conductors and other employees in the train service are being laid off, and the situation, it is believed, gradually is converging toward a crisis in railroad affairs of the country.

ARMED MAN SEEKS HARMON

Visitor Is Sent to Prison Pending His Examination as to His Sanity.

Columbus, O., March 31.—Declaring that he came to Columbus from his home in Ostrander, O., to warn Governor Harmon of some terrible calamity about to befall him, the nature of which he refused to divulge, a man about twenty-five years of age, giving the name of Guy Rittenhouse, was sent to the county prison pending examination as to his sanity. A loaded revolver was found in his possession. According to state house officials, Rittenhouse came into the building and paced up and down the corridor, refusing to give any indication of his business.

Favor State Income Tax.

Augusta, Me., March 31.—The Maine senate adopted a state income tax bill and declined to ratify the federal amendment to the Constitution providing for an income tax. This action was in concurrence with that taken by the house.

Pass Senatorial Vote Bill.

Columbus, O., March 31.—The house passed, by a vote of 89 to 13, the Wilson bill providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote on the Oregon plan.

No Infallible Method.

A leading mathematician of France gives another warning that there is no infallible method of doubling one's stakes after a loss. San Francisco, March 31.—Joan Miller, the poet of the Sierras, who early in the month was given up by doctors, is now almost fully recovered. He has returned to his home on the Heights, overlooking San Francisco bay, where he has done some of his best work. He took with him his wife, from whom he had been separated for ten years, and henceforth she will make her home with him, as well as his daughter Juanita.

UNIVERSAL ARBITRATION AND DISARMAMENT HOPELESS.German Premier Sees Strife for Power as Long as Men Are Men.

Berlin, March 31.—Discussing the proposed extension of international arbitration in the Reichstag, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg classes universal arbitration and universal disarmament as ideas impossible of realization.

"The imperial chancellor saw as the chief difficulty in a disarmament agreement the impossibility of supervision of individual states."

"Control over these," he said, "I regard as absolutely impracticable. The mere attempt to control would have no other result than continual mutual distrust and universal turmoil. General disarmament is an insoluble problem as long as men are men."

"It will remain true," continued the chancellor, "that the weak will be the prey of the strong. If any nation feels that it is unable longer to spend certain sums for defensive purposes it will inevitably drop to the second rank. There will always be a stronger one ready to take its place."

"We Germans in our exposed situation cannot shut our eyes to this dire reality, only so far as we can maintain peace."

"The nations, including Germany," the chancellor went on, "have been talking disarmament since the first Hague conference, but neither in Germany nor elsewhere has a practical plan been proposed."

SAYS HE SLEW CHILD

FRANK E. HEIDEMANN PLEADS
GUILTY TO MURDER.Confesses That He Killed Marie Smith, Aged Ten Years, With a Hammer.

Asbury Park, N. J., March 31.—Frank E. Heidemann pleaded guilty to the murder of Marie Smith, the ten-year-old Asbury Park school girl, when arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Willard P. Voorhees in the county courthouse at Freehold.

Heidemann, who was arrested on the Atlantic City express at Red Bank on March 15 while endeavoring to escape to Honduras, was indicted by the grand jury following the reading of a signed confession made to the detective who arrested him.

In the confession Heidemann told of slaying the girl in the woods along Deal Lake on November 9 last. He said he killed the child on the spot where she was found with a hammer. He carried the hammer back to the greenhouse where he was employed as a gardener, and where it was found by the detectives. The hammer is now in the possession of the authorities.

With the proverbial rapidity of Jersey justice, Heidemann was led into court three hours after the indictment was found. His face was white and drawn and his hands shook as he grasped the rail for support. He was a picture of despair.

When the indictment was read Heidemann collapsed. His plea was announced in a voice so faint as to be almost inaudible. When he uttered the word "guilty" he sobbed audibly and clutched at a table for support.

After counsel had been assigned to defend the accused man the day of the trial was set for April 17.

Marie Dressler is as famous for her epigrams as she is for her generosity. An actor at the opera house was recalling one of her justly famous bits of repartee.

Miss Dressler was inviting her friends to a birthday party. "There'll be a birthday cake, I suppose," someone remarked.

"Yes, there'll be a cake, never fear," was the reply.

"And candles, of course?" went on the alleged wit.

"My friend," said Miss Dressler, "this is to be a birthday party, not a torchlight procession."—Hochester Herald.

The attention of those using awnings is called to what is acknowledged by many, architects, builders and those in charge of larger buildings, the greatest improvement in applying awnings to residences or business blocks ever invented. Its simplicity of operation and absence of parts liable to get out of order, and the fact that anyone with ordinary tools can put them up, are points that will recommend it to anyone who has had any experience with the old style awning.

They do not stick or jam and can be raised or lowered without any trouble or inconvenience to the operator.

They are especially recommended because of the ease and rapidity with which they can be taken down and the small amount of room required to store them when not in season.

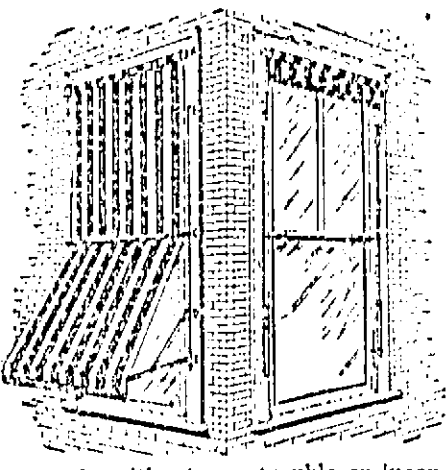

Should the necessity arise the coverings can be replaced at one-third the expense of the old style awnings.

Owing to its construction the material is at all times tightly stretched; no creases or folds can form and collect soot.

It's superiority over any style of awnings is that they do not disfigure or detract from the appearance of any building, leaving the entire window free when up; they shut out no light from the room, even when down, and being open on all sides, admit fresh air, which is very essential.

The fact that they are storm proof is in their favor, for no wind no matter how strong, can disarrange or destroy them even when down, no necessity of rushing to the window and raising them every time a storm occurs. Being noiseless at all times even if let down at night, they will cause no annoyance or worry in case of sudden storm or winds. All iron parts are galvanized which makes them perfectly rust-proof.

This is the awning for you and when you're ready just drop us a line and we'll have our representative call and demonstrate to you we have the cheapest awning and the best on the market today. Or when you call at the store we'll show you.

CREAM CITY MEN TO PAY VISIT TO THIS CITY ON JUNE TOUR

Milwaukee Business Men Will Stop in Janesville During Their Annual Summer Tour of Western Cities.

Official notification has been received that a large delegation of Milwaukee business men will visit this city during the second week of June on the eleventh annual excursion of the Association of that city. The special train consisting of nine coaches will leave Milwaukee June 5th to follow an itinerary which includes forty cities in Northern Illinois, Western Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota.

The annual excursion is in line with previous trips taken by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association through territory tributary to Milwaukee. This Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association is the representative business organization of more than one thousand composed of the leading business houses of the Cream City. In previous years trips have been taken through northern Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, southwestern Wisconsin and Iowa and the Dakotas. This year the Milwaukee business men will devote their entire itinerary within the larger State in an effort to increase Milwaukee trade. A large part of the trade of the cities to be visited now turns to Milwaukee as the most advantageous jobbing and manufacturing center in the Middle West and members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association are assured that this trade will be increased by the projected trip.

Milwaukee's situation commands excellent facilities to points in this territory and its reputation as a jobbing and manufacturing center is well known. Local merchants who have placed orders with Milwaukee houses will be pleased to learn that recent improvements have been made in passenger facilities to Milwaukee over connecting roads.

Entertainment Features.

In addition to the business features of the trip the Milwaukee men bring with them several interesting features for the entertainment of their hosts. The famous Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association orchestra is one of the most remarkable singing organizations of their city. Composed of eight male voices their repertoire embraces everything from the old familiar selections of the home to the more classical selections of well known composers. The success of this organization on previous excursions lends added interest to the feats which they promise to perform this year. In arranging for the entertainment of the Milwaukee business men no houses or dinners will be provided at cities en route as the time of the merchants is so economically arranged as to provide for all meals while on the train, three dinners being part of the regular train equipment. Advantages from this trip will be derived not only by the Milwaukee jobbers and manufacturers but each city at which they stop will receive a large amount of valuable publicity through the live newspaper men, representing Milwaukee papers, who will accompany the merchants throughout the entire excursion. Each day of the trip column articles will appear in all the Milwaukee papers containing descriptions of territory visited.

STRONG TEMPERANCE SPEECH LAST NIGHT

Mrs. Lawson, State President of W. C. T. U. Spoke Before Local Union at Methodist Church.

That the liquor interests are doing all in their power to block any attempts to put them out of existence, and have been preparing for over fifty years for a final fight on the question, was the statement made at the Methodist church last evening by Mrs. Lawson, state president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who spoke before the members of the local union and temperance workers of the city.

In order to gain strength for this battle, Mrs. Lawson said, the liquor men have sought to gain control of the churches and schools of the country and have gone into politics. As an instance of this she cited the fact that educated men had been hired by the liquor dealers of the state to lobby against the local option bill in the Wisconsin senate.

She charged the saloons with buying a control of the churches through subsidizing weak members and gave as an example the city of St. Louis where the aid of the business men of the city was enlisted by selling them stock in breweries and saloon industries. She said that while the city of Milwaukee receives the annual revenue of $127,000 from its 2,135 saloons, the money being used for paying streets, public playgrounds and benefitting the city, the poor children of the city do not receive the benefits of the playgrounds or the parks as they must work to furnish money for liquor for their parents.

Tobacco lowers the morals of the nation, said the speaker, and the decline of ancient Greece and Rome was attributed to excessive indulgence in intoxicants and narcotics. France, said Mrs. Lawson, was threatened by this calamity, but has begun to realize this fact and make reforms. Liquors are also forbidden officers in the German army and navy.

The state laws prohibiting the use of tobacco by persons under sixteen years of age and forbidding the sale of cigars are dead, was the statement made, and are worse than no law at all. The speaker concluded her address with an appeal to the voters to take a decided stand for the right.

It is hoped that a very large attendance of such persons as do not find it convenient to go out in the evenings will come to the afternoon meetings at 4:00 o'clock. ## JANESVILLE TEAM IN BRILLIANT WIN OVER FOND DU LAC

Local Five in Strong Finish Defeated Up State Team by Score of 30 to 28 and Will Meet La Crosse Tonight in Semi-Finals.

In the five minutes overtime following a game, the Janesville high school basketball team played with a rush that defeated the Fond du Lac aggregation by the score of 30 to 28, at the Appleton tournament last night. This places the local team in the semi-finals which will be played tonight, and in which they will meet the La Crosse five that defeated the Sheboygan yesterday by the score of 32 to 25. The two other teams which meet in the semi-finals are Appleton and Superior.

In the Janesville-Fond du Lac game yesterday the strong up state team started the game with a rush that almost took the local boys off their feet. At the end of the first half the score stood 18 to 6 in favor of Fond du Lac and things looked dubious for Janesville. It was fourteen minutes after the game started before the locals were able to score, and the first floor work of their opponents seemed insurmountable.

In the second half, however, Janesville showed real class and in the last minutes of play tied the score, adding 19 points to their side of the score in the second half, which ended 25 to 25. Five minutes overtime was necessary and Janesville kept up their record playing in that time and won the game, scoring 5 points to Fond du Lac's 2.

This contest was the feature of the day's games and it is undoubtedly the best match which will be played during the entire series. "It was one of the best games ever played in a state tournament," said the Milwaukee Free Press in regard to the game. Excitement throughout the last half and in the five minutes overtime was of fever heat and the star contest which Janesville played was the task of the hour. Chances for Janesville's winning the championship rated many points and the joy of the students here knows no bounds.

The details of the game were:

Janesville, 30; Fond du Lac, 28.

La Crosse, 32; Sheboygan, 25.

Original Era of Good Feeling.

The phrase applied to the administration of James Monroe, "the era of good feeling," first appeared in a Boston newspaper, the Columbian Sentinel of July 19, 1817. From that time until the present hour the two administrations of Monroe—a period of eight years, 1817 to 1825—are referred to in the terms of the newspaper paragraph which so aptly expressed the public sentiment of the day—Magazine of American History.

MISSING ARTICLES RETURNED.

The Little Linotype or Two on the Back Page Responsible.

The power of the Want Ad is great. It extends from the one end of the hat of human wants to the very other extreme. A noticeable incident was that affecting the return last week of such a prosaic article as a wagon nut. The nut was lost in the afternoon, a "LOST" ad inserted in that day's issue. Twenty minutes after the paper was off the press the nut was returned to the owner, the finder stating that he had noticed the ad or otherwise would not have known to whom the nut belonged.

And so it goes on. Many, many more incidents similar to the above might be cited and others where articles of value such as watches, fobs, money, checks, purses and other things have been returned through this effective medium.

In checking up over a long period of time it is found that in over 75 cases out of a hundred, articles lost and advertised are returned.

Even now many articles, returned through the Lost Column, repose in this office awaiting the call of the owners—a bunch of keys, a pair of baby's shoes, a check book, a paper of needles, a pocket book containing money, a lady's hand bag, a University pin, several watches, an automobile curtain top and a lady's brown coat.

Beyond a doubt the Lost Column of the Want ads is by far the best way to go about securing the return of any lost article.

WOMAN'S PAGE

To Our Women Readers.

We may live without poetry, music and art.
We may live without conscience and live without heart,
We may live without friends, we may live without books—
But civilized man can not live without cooks.

IN ANNOUNCING the next contest for the women readers of the GAZETTE, a subject has been chosen that should appeal to every housewife in the city as well as to the male members of the household. One writer says that nothing wins a man's heart so easily as a good meal, and it is the meal and the preparation thereof, that the coming contest has to deal with. Each day on the Woman's Page, is published a few choice recipes, under the caption, "Kitchen Cabinet." They are prepared and selected with care to meet the demands of the average housekeeper, not elaborate, not too plain, but just common-sense recipes. They appear every day in the week and are worth reading.

In the "Suggestion" contest, which closes on Friday of this week, many of the letters have contained suggestions which will be of great benefit in preparing a page for the women readers. Among others was the idea of publishing a daily menu for three meals. Feeling that such a menu can be prepared far better by the Janesville housewives than any one else the next contest of THE GAZETTE will have this in view.

This "Kitchen Cabinet" will appear in the paper daily, and, as requested by the readers, recipes for other dishes will be printed. At the end of the month, May first, all contestants must have their menus for one week, three meals each day, in the office. One of the conditions is that these menus must be compiled from the daily recipes published during the month in the Gazette, and each list of menus is to be accompanied by a list of the dates on which the recipes used were published. For the best series of menus for one week of three meals each day the following prizes are offered:

FIRST PRIZE—CALORIC FIRELESS COOKSTOVE.
SECOND PRIZE—$5.00 IN GOLD.
THIRD PRIZE—$3.00.
FOURTH PRIZE—$2.00.

In order to make this contest easier for the housewife and at the same time more convenient, THE GAZETTE has had prepared a number of scrap books in which the recipes may be pasted after being clipped from the daily paper. These can be obtained by application at the GAZETTE office by presenting one of the coupons published in THE GAZETTE daily, starting Saturday, or by mail upon receipt of the coupon and two cents in stamps to cover mailing. Even if you do not enter the contest you will find one of these scrap books a convenience for your kitchen cabinet.

This contest will start on April first and continue through the month, all menus being in the GAZETTE office by May 1. Address of inquiries for special recipes should be made to the "FEATURE EDITOR," care of GAZETTE, and if mailed, have a two cent stamp on the envelope.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"All that ought to be done can be done."
—Kant.

"I ought, I can, I will."
—Vince.

LET me tell you a little story of a great change. The change is in a woman's personality and the story of it has impressed me anew with the tremendous power of the "I will" on character forming. The young woman in question took the training for a convalescent nurse a couple of years ago.

When she made up her mind to do this, everybody prophesied failure because she did not seem at all the kind of person for this sort of work. She was impatient and nervous, inclined to quick temper and had a rather loud, unpleasant voice.

The other day I heard someone speak of her, and asked how she had succeeded. "Wonderfully, Miss Cameron," said my informant. "And you never saw such an improvement in anyone in all your life. She visited me a few days last week and really, she's a changed woman."

"You know how nervous she used to be and how impatient if things didn't go just as she wanted them to? Well, now she is as well poised and self-controlled as can be."

"And her voice—why you'd scarcely know it was the same person speaking. It is so pleasant and well modulated. What has happened to her? Well, I complimented her on her improvement and asked her how she did it and she just said, 'Because I had to. I realized that when I took my first position. So I did.'"

You see this woman was a living example of Kant's and Vince's doctrine and we who would have discouraged her were altogether in the wrong.

I wonder if there isn't a lesson in this for the mothers who refuse to put some responsibility upon, or require some task from a child because "Margaret is so impatient with the younger children," or because "John is so apt to forget things when I send him on errands."

I happen to know two mothers, one of whom refused to send her daughter away to college because the girl was so helpless about taking care of herself and often showed such erratic judgment; the other who sent her daughter to college for just the same reason.

The first girl at thirty is the same erratic, inefficient person she was at eighteen. In the other girl, the eleven call of "I must" brought out the "I can" and she came back from college a well-poised woman.

I have read somewhere that the reason a man sometimes surprises himself by doing unusually brilliant work when he is half sick, is that he is making a tremendous effort and calling on all of his powers. The article states that under ordinary conditions, we only use about one-quarter of our powers, and that when any obstacle like illness causes us to exert our full power, we surprise ourselves by what we can do.

Doubtless, other obstacles besides illness produce the same results. All that ought to be done can be done and in the doing, the ability will be created.

FRIENDSHIP OF SLOW GROWTH

Too many people there are who count mere acquaintance with friendship. These are the people who are ever ready to grapple every new acquaintance to their breasts, give to them the best that is in themselves and confide in them to the extent they would hardly offer the closest friend. It was General Washington who said: "True friendship is a plant of slow growth, and must undergo and withstand the shocks of adversity before it is entitled to the appellation."

Friendship must be strong because it is called upon to endure much. It must put up with follies and quirks of character and disposition that scarcely any other relationship is called upon to bear. It must be patient and long suffering and it must be forgiving. It must always be in the mood for any and every enterprise and it must be carefully guarded.

In brief, friendship is a flower that withers at the first unfavorable breeze

Some are not worthy, considered from any angle.

A friendship that lowers our estimate of the value of goodness and virtue had better be dropped as soon as begun, because it can bring us nothing but regret. So, too, the friendship that lowers our own ideals and purposes in life or makes us place a lower estimate on the value of a definite aim in life. Friendship that detracts from our stock of courage, purpose or inclination to make headway is only a misfortune and should never for a moment be entertained.

Man of womanly mind only those associations that are elevating and ennobling. They want only those friendships that bring out the best in them and make them courageous and noble, worthy members of any society. And the friendship that does not perform that office is impotent and worthless.

MILK SOMETIMES INJURIOUS.

Cow's milk is not, as a rule, a good food for adults. Its casein is difficult to digest, and if it remains long in the stomach, as it does where the motor action of the stomach is deficient, putrefaction, causing serious poisoning, is the result. The infant is better adapted to the digestion of milk than the adult, but cow's milk causes great mortality in infants, aside from its contamination by lack of care. Buttermilk is preferable because its casein curds are broken up and the development of its specific germ prevents the growth in the milk of disease-producing germs. Nuts are a safer source of protein than milk, and for infants who cannot have their natural food, goat's milk should, if possible, be provided. Less than half a dozen cases of tuberculosis have ever been found in the goat. It is the cleanest and healthiest of animals and best of all—the milk may be conveyed to the infant's stomach without ever a moment's contamination by air.

THESE are not better every-where, but smooth green grasses are more common still. The blue of heaven is larger than the cloud. —E. B. Browning.

Some Hot Puddings.

A steamed or baked pudding is a dish appreciated by the men, who usually like a rich dessert. Here are a few that will be an addition to any recipe book:

Whole Wheat Pudding.

Mix two cups of whole wheat flour, half a teaspoon of soda and half a teaspoonful of salt. Add one cup of milk, half a cup of molasses, and one cup of chopped raisins or a cup of ripe berries. Steam two hours and a half and serve with cream or pudding sauce. One cup of dates, figs or stewed prunes or chopped apple makes a variety which is pleasing.

An egg sauce made with hot milk, sugar and flavoring makes a good sauce for this pudding.

Cabinet Pudding.

Butter a molin mold and decorate it with candied fruit, or with raisins boiled until soft. Put in a layer of cake or lady fingers, then a few pieces of fruit, and repeat until the mold is full, or nearly so. Pour a pint of boiling milk into the yolk of three eggs beaten with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt. Pour over the cake in the mold and set the mold into a pan of hot water on the back of the stove for half an hour, then place in the oven, still in the hot water, and bake an hour. Serve with luscious sauce.

French Bread Pudding.

Butter small, thin slices of bread and spread with apple jelly, lay them in a pudding dish, filling it half full. Pour over a boiled custard and cover with a meringue. Brown the meringue and serve cold.

Orange and Coconut Pudding.

Butter a tall mold, sprinkle the bottom and sides with grated coconut, using the fresh nut. Crumble rather fine a stale sponge cake. Fill the mold almost to the top with alternate layers of cake, coconut and sliced oranges. Beat four eggs, add a pint of milk, a pinch of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Bake this slowly over the mixture in the mold and let stand for 15 minutes. Steam for 45 minutes.

A Detulant Query

Although I said I'd swear no more As I had sworn to days of yore— Although temptations came like rain To spur me on to words profane, I did not make myself ashamed By even saying "Oh, damnation!" And yet—and yet—no more on earth I spoke of my former mortal worth.

Although I binned the fat chair That littered the house with dirt and hair, And sold no more should I be seen A thinking slave to sloth, Nobody took me by the hand And called my conduct great and grand.

But, listen! Here is what I did: "Was yesterday that I should? Well, when I tried them both— And once I breathed a word of oath— And instantly the word had gone Among my friends, and still I flew on! Although I shunned the tempting cup And vowed I would not drink it up, Why?

Of the new leaf which I had turned— Although I pledged no more in wine But said, "This spring's wild brew for mine." Nobody ever checked my name, The world went rolling on the same, No one on earth seemed to have noticed I turned.

That I once more in darkness groped And that for me there is no hope— Why? WILHELM D. NEBBIT.

Valuable Suggestions

Isolated Cake Making Hints

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder.

Biscuit Helps

At my sifting flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.

Labortouché laughed gently. "Now, tonight you will learn something from this Dhola Bakh—something important, undoubtedly. May I see this ring—this token?"

Unbuttoning his shirt, Amber produced the key from the chain bag. Labortouché studied it for a long time in silence, returning it with an air of deep perturbation.

"The thing is strange to me," he said. "For the present we may dismiss it as simply what it pretends to be—a token, a sign by which one man shall know another."

"Wear it, but turn the stone in, and keep your hands in your pockets when we're outside."

Amber obeyed. "We'll be going now."

"Yes," Labortouché rose, throwing away his cigar and stamping out its fire.

"But the Parrells!"

"Forgive me; I had forgotten. The Parrells are at Darjeeling, where the colonel is stationed just now—happily for him."

"Then," said Amber, with decision, "I leave for Darjeeling tomorrow morning."

"I know no reason why you shouldn't," agreed Labortouché. "If anything turns up I'll contrive to let you know."

He looked Amber up and down with a glance that took in every detail. "I'm sorry," he observed, "you couldn't have managed to look a truce shabbier. Still, a touch here and there, you'd do excellently well as a sailor on a spree."

"As bad as that?"

"Oh, my dear fellow!"—it was now the babu speaking, while he hopped around Amber with his head cocked to one side, like an inquisitive tick-daw, now and again darting forward to peck at him with hands that nervously but deftly arranged details of his attire to please a fastidious and exacting in such matters—"Oh, my dear fellow, surely you appreciate danger of venturing into native quarters in European dress? As regular out-and-out sahib, I am meaning, of course, it is permissible for riff-raff, sailors and Tommies from the fort, and so on, to indulge in debauchery among natives, but first-class sahib—Oh, no! You would be mobbed in no time at all, where we are going."

"All right; I guess I can play the part, babu. At least, I've plenty of atmosphere," Amber laughed, mentioning the incident of the peg he had not consumed over Honest George's bar.

"I had noticed that; a happy accident, indeed. I think—Labortouché stopped back to look Amber over again—"I think you will almost do, one moment."

He seized Amber's hat and, dashing it violently to the floor, deliberately stamped it out of shape; when restored to its owner it had aged five years in less than half as many minutes. Amber laughed, putting it on.

"Surely you couldn't ask me to look more disreputable," he said with a dubious survey of himself in the mirror.

"You'll do," chuckled Labortouché approvingly. "Just ram your hands into your trousers pockets without unbuttoning your coat, and shuffle along as if nocturnal rambles in the slums of Calcutta were an every-day thing to you. If you're spoken to, don't betray too much familiarity with the vernacular. You know about the limit of the average Tommy's vocabulary; don't go beyond it."

He unlocked and locked the door by which Amber had entered, putting the key in his pocket, and turned to a second door across the room. "We'll leave this way; I chose this place because it's a regular rabbit warren, with half a dozen entrances and exits. I'll leave you in a passage leading to the bazar. Wait in the doorway until you see me stroll past; give me thirty yards lead and follow. Keep in the middle of the way, avoid a crowd as the plague, and don't lose sight of me. I'll stop in front of Dhola Bakh's shop long enough to light a cheroot and go on without looking back. When you come out I'll be waiting for you. If we lose one another, get back to your hotel as quickly as possible. I may send you word. If I don't, I shall understand you've taken the first morning train for Darjeeling. I think that's all."

Amber left the room Labortouché extinguished the lamp, shut and locked the door, and followed, catching him through pitch darkness to the head of the stairs. "Don't talk," he whispered; "trust me." They descended an interminable flight of steps, passed down a long, echoing corridor, and again descended. From the foot of the second flight Labortouché shunted Amber round through what seemed a veritable maze of passages—in which, however, he was evidently at home. At length: "Now go ahead!" was breathed in Amber's ear and at the same time his arm was released.

He obeyed blindly, stumbling down a rocking corridor, and in a minute more, to his utter relief, was in the open air of the bazar.

Thinking with the abrupt transition from absolute night to garish light, he skulked in the shadow of the doorway, waiting. Beneath his gaze Calcutta paraded its congress of peoples—a comprehensive collection of specimens of every tribe in Hindustan and of nearly every other race in the world besides.

Like a fat, tawdry moth in his garments of rolled pink, a babu loitered past, with never a sidelong glance for the leather figure in the shadowed doorway; and the latter seemed almost absorbed in the family of Eurasians who were shrilly squabbling with the keeper of vegetable stall adjacent. But presently he warred of their noise, yawned, thrust both hands deep in his pockets and stumbled away. The babu accepted him as a brother, unquestioning, and he picked his way through it with an ease that argued nothing but absolute familiarity with his surroundings. But always you may be sure, he had the gleam of pink satin in the corner of his eye.

In time broad Machua bazar street received them—Pink Satin and the sailorman out for a night of it. And now Pink Satin began to stroll more sedately, manifesting a livelier interest in the sights of the wayside. Amber's impatience—for he guessed that they neared the goldsmith's stall—increased prodigiously.

Without warning, Pink Satin pulled up, extracted from the recesses of his costume a long, black and vindictive-looking native cigar, and lighted it, thoughtfully exhaling the smoke through his nose while he stared curiously at the display of a slipper-merchant whose stand was over across from the stall of a goldsmith.

With true oriental deliberation Pink Satin finally made up his mind to move on; and Amber lurched heavily into the premises occupied by one Dhola Bakh, a goldsmith.

A customer, a slim, handsome Malayan youth, for the moment held the attention of the proprietor. The two were haggling with characteristic fervor over a transaction which seemed to involve less than twenty rupees. Amber waited, knowing that patience must be his portion until the bargain should be struck.

Dhola Bakh himself, a lean, sharp-featured Malabar with a gray with age, appraised with a single look the new customer, and returned his interest to the Malay. But Amber paraded from that glance a sensation of recognition. He wondered dimly, why; could the goldsmith have been warned of his coming?

Two or three more putative customers filed into the shop. Beyond its threshold the stream of native life rolled on, ceaselessly fluent; a pageant of the middle ages had been no more fantastic and unreal to western eyes. Now and again a wayfarer paused, his interest attracted by the goldsmith's rush of business.

Unexpectedly the proprietor made a substantial concession. Money passed upon the instant, sealing the bargain. The Malay rose to go. Dhola Bakh lifted a stony stare to Amber.

"Your pleasure, sahib?" he inquired, with a thinly-veiled sneer. What need to show deference to a down-at-the-heel sailor from the port?

"I want money—I want to borrow," said Amber promptly.

"On security?"

"What manner of security can you offer?"

"A ring—an emerald ring."

Dhola Bakh shrugged. His eyes shifted from Amber to the encircling faces of the bystanders. "I am a poor man," he whined. "How should I have money to lend? Come to me on the morrow; then maybe I may have a few rupees. Tonight I have neither cash nor time."

The hint was lost upon Amber. "A step of price," he persisted.

With a disturbed and apprehensive look, the money-lender rose. "Come, then," he grumbled. "If you must—"

A voice cried out behind Amber—"Heh!"—more a squeal than a cry. Instinctively, as at a signal of danger, he leaped aside. Simultaneously something like a beam of light sped past his head. The goldsmith uttered one dreadful, choking scream, and went to his knees. For as many as three seconds he swung back and forth, his features terribly contorted, his thin old hands plucking at the handle of a broad-bladed dagger which had transversed his throat. Then he tumbled forward on his face, kicking.

There followed a single instant of suspense and horror, then a mad rush of feet as the street stampeded into the shop. Voices clamored to the skies. Somehow the lights went out.

Amber started to fight his way out. As he struggled on, making little headway through the press, a hand grasped his arm and drew him another way.

"Make haste, hazaar!" cried the owner of the hand, in Hindustani.

Amber obeyed. "We'll be going now."

"Yes," Labortouché rose, throwing away his cigar and stamping out its fire.

"But the Parrells!"

"Forgive me; I had forgotten. The Parrells are at Darjeeling, where the colonel is stationed just now—happily for him."

"All right; I guess I can play the part, babu. At least, I've plenty of atmosphere," Amber laughed, mentioning the incident of the peg he had not consumed over Honest George's bar.

"I had noticed that; a happy accident, indeed. I think—Labortouché stopped back to look Amber over again—"I think you will almost do, one moment."

"Make haste, hazaar!" cried the owner of the hand, in Hindustani.

Amber obeyed. "We'll be going now."

"Yes," Labortouché rose, throwing away his cigar and stamping out its fire.

"But the Parrells!"

"Forgive me; I had forgotten. The Parrells are at Darjeeling, where the colonel is stationed just now—happily for him."

"Then," said Amber, with decision, "I leave for Darjeeling tomorrow morning."

"I know no reason why you shouldn't," agreed Labortouché. "If anything turns up I'll contrive to let you know."

He looked Amber up and down with a glance that took in every detail. "I'm sorry," he observed, "you couldn't have managed to look a truce shabbier. Still, a touch here and there, you'd do excellently well as a sailor on a spree."

"As bad as that?"

"Oh, my dear fellow!"—it was now the babu speaking, while he hopped around Amber with his head cocked to one side, like an inquisitive tick-daw, now and again darting forward to peck at him with hands that nervously but deftly arranged details of his attire to please a fastidious and exacting in such matters—"Oh, my dear fellow, surely you appreciate danger of venturing into native quarters in European dress? As regular out-and-out sahib, I am meaning, of course, it is permissible for riff-raff, sailors and Tommies from the fort, and so on, to indulge in debauchery among natives, but first-class sahib—Oh, no! You would be mobbed in no time at all, where we are going."

"All right; I guess I can play the part, babu. At least, I've plenty of atmosphere," Amber laughed, mentioning the incident of the peg he had not consumed over Honest George's bar.

Len the Fisherman's Son

A dash of brilliant light swept the surface of the ocean and the water:

for Len and his father to man the little fishing boat and shortly they were speeding away in the early morning breeze straight out to sea along that golden path of sunlit water.

Len looked all about him and he counted the small vessels that dotted the sea all about him.

And the catch that day was such a large one. All day long the little boy by his father's side landed over the side of the vessel the plashing fish and they came in, the while.

"We will make a good sum in this catch," said the father at the close of day, and Len was happy because he knew that he had played a part.

There is really and truly such a little boy as Len and he is strong and healthy. His life by the sea made him so. Every day in the year you will find him out upon the sea with his father regardless of the weather. Would you not like to meet such an interesting little chap?

It was early morning and the little fishing village where Len lived was cold and bleak. Already the early toilers of the sea were astir for it was time to be off to the fishing grounds. Through the gloom of the early day you could have seen the figures of men carrying great baskets down to the water's edge where small fishing vessels bobbed up and down on the waves as if impatient to be off.

Away off across the water in the eastern sky, a flash of light appeared. The sun likewise was getting ready for the day. And then from out the little fisher, but a bit farther back from the sea than the rest, came Len and his father.

"My, we are late this morning, father," said the little boy. "The sun is all ready to get up."

"There she comes now," said the man as a blood red ball of fire suddenly popped into view just over the horizon.

ONLY WORK COUNTS

WOMAN IN BUSINESS SHOULD NOT BE SENSITIVE.

She is Not Paid Because She is Pretty or Stylish, but Because She is Useful to the Business.

The woman who finds herself facing the problem of earning a living should immediately proceed to get rid of her sensitive feelings, if she has any. She would do well to try to sink her personality during business hours, and keep saying to herself that only her work counts, that she is not paid because she is pretty or stylish, but just because she is useful to the business which pays her wages. When she fails in that her road looks will not save her. A capable girl with, perhaps, neither beauty nor style, will succeed here.

The employers who are hiring girls for their charms are few, and the girls who have to work are many. Gentle blue workers are striving to secure the wages of men, which can only be done by doing men's work. Now men do not expect praise and it does not turn their head when it is given. As a rule they do not accept reproach as a personal injury.

The just employer gives both praise and blame. When he pays promptly he expects good work every day and not according to the feelings of his workers. When there is a valid reason for leniency—illness, for instance—he is kind, but for shirking he has no mercy. A man who employs more than fifty women told me that he had no trouble with them because he treated them exactly as he would treat men. His creed was so much work for so much money and he reasoned that no woman had a right to accept a position which could not all. I think that was fully understood by his office, for he was in the habit of going away and returning without warning, and he seemed satisfied with the result.

Women are not yet accustomed to being treated with the lack of courtesy which makes the atmosphere of a business place. A man whose brain is turning over important plans cannot give particular attention to the tone in which he addresses an employee. It may be brusque without his knowing it or intending any unkindness. A man would pay no attention to tone as long as words were decent, but to a woman's sensitive ear the tone in everything. It seriously affects her work, so business men claim, and it is the necessity for avoiding trouble that turns them in favor of male workers. I saw a badly frayed sheet taken back to the kitchen recently by a woman who is never anything but kind to her employees. "When you find clean clothes that look like this, Mary, do not bring them to me; do them over." The girl burst into tears with the remark that nobody had ever found fault with her laundry till then. It is a queer some reasoning to bring her to a proper frame of mind, and the woman decided to replace her by one less sensitive at the earliest opportunity. It came last week—Betty Braden in The Buffalo Enquirer.

No More "Ticket-of-Leave" Men.

The old ticket-of-leave system—the staple of many an honest melodrama after Charles Denny—has at last gone altogether. Henceforth the discharged convict really anxious to make a clean start will not be brought into direct contact with the police. Up to now the convict has been supervised by the police on the one hand and cared for by various philanthropic societies on the other, and there has been no co-operation between the police and the societies. The new scheme is to combine into a central body the societies which have hitherto aided discharged prisoners and to give this body authority to deal with the convicts and funds to carry on the work. This body will be responsible for the convicts whose interests it serves, and the police will have no more dealings with discharged prisoners so long as they keep from further crime.—From the London Saturday Review.

Experience to Remember.

A woman and her four-year-old child were rescued early the other morning on a Welsh mountain after a terrible ordeal. They visited some relatives and started back across the dark mountain. The woman, however, took the wrong road, and as night fell found she was lost. In the darkness, both she and the child fell into a brook. They managed to extricate themselves, but as they ran to and fro, wet through and bitterly cold, the child left its mother's side. The woman wandered about screaming for help, until a workman heard her. Search parties were at once sent out, and the child was discovered in a plantation, almost dead from exposure, with a bad wound to the head caused by falling over a rock. It had been without food, on the frozen mountain side, for sixteen hours.

Work Wins Reward of Merit.

It is interesting to know that Mrs. Arthur Nevill took up the study of bacteriology in the first place simply as a hobby, and the fact that she has been appointed bacteriologist of the Pasteur Institute shows how well she did her work even as an avocation only. She is the wife of the composer Arthur Nevill, and makes a specialty of diseases of the throat and lungs. She will now have M. D. after her name.

After the Operation.

Doctor—Now, nurse, take the patient's temperature.

Patient (tired)—Oh, doctor, do leave me something to my system.

To Mark Historic Spot.

A movement is on foot to erect a monument to commemorate the first hotel which took place in the first cemetery of the first church in the Allegheny Valley, Middle county, Pennsylvania. A little white child, whose name has been long ago forgotten, was first to be interred. The funeral cortege was headed by Indians and the men stood guard with their rifles while the women lowered the body into the grave and filled in the earth. The spot is historic, located only a few yards from the celebrated Logan spring, where Judge William Brown, the original grantee of the land surrounding Brown's Mills, now Reedsville, from the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, met Chief Logan, the Mingo, which meeting sealed the friendship between Indians and whites until the former had been pushed further west by the trend of civilization.

Following the Seasons.

There is a lot to be said for a good, old-fashioned, well-tried, as each season discloses. In summer we're sighing for frost. And in winter we hanker for roses.

Clumsy Compliment.

He was a flatterer, but a clumsy one. Nothing that the girl of his heart possessed beautiful teeth that shone like ivory, he ventured to pass a compliment.

"Dearest," he whispered, leaning over the music rack, "your teeth are like piano keys."

Freezing him with an icy glance, she turned on her heel. "Sir, how dare you insult me?"

"Insult you?"

"Yes, insinuate that my teeth are as large as piano keys." And without another word she left the parlor, leaving him crestfallen and bewildered.

SHAKESPEARE SAYS

"Throw physic to the dogs." Of course Shakespeare lived in the days of castor oil and opium salts and we don't blame him. In Shakespeare's time bowel laxatives like cascara were unknown; the world took physic and there was always war somewhere or love-making. Pharmaceutical and chemical science of modern times has perfected bowel laxatives of just worth—laxatives that tone up, strengthen the natural action, stimulate the liver and assist nature. The very best of these are the Badger Pink Liver Pills, composed of cascara and other vegetable laxative and tonic remedies.

Pink Liver Pills do not contain phonyphthalin that now had put up in sugar waters of pretty color. Those who have no curative properties. ## NOTHING TO IT.

Father—What? You got into the circus for nothing?

Lou—Yes, easy! I carried the manager's grip from the train, ran errands for 'im an' peddled hand bills and he gimme a ticket ter nothin'!

THE QUESTION.

Mazie—Why, Argy, papa wouldn't take him to a young man.

Argy—Does he feel the same way about his feet?

Mentioning No Names.

Up in Ottawa recently a prisoner about to be sentenced to prison, and the court was so enraged that a woman was added to the term of imprisonment. This led the Toronto Globe to remark that it is "fortunate that certain actors, lecturers, professors and clergymen have not the power of poe magisterial."

The Blessings of Trouble.

"Trouble has its blessings," said the old philosopher. "When the cold winds at the door he may wake a sleeping policeman; and when the hurricane hits your house the bathing may be sitting on the doorstep; and may get the blowout of his tire."

OLDEST INHABITANT

Stranger—I heard that man refer to "motor cars" as "automobiles"—he must be your oldest inhabitant?

Native—Oh, no; our oldest inhabitant is still calling them horseless carriages.

ARGUMENT AVOIDED.

Mrs. Doyle—Do you go through your husband's pockets?

Mrs. Doyle—Sure; it's the best thing for him.

Mrs. Doyle—How is that?

Mrs. Doyle—The doctor says that he must avoid excitement and I think my method is better than scolding him by asking him for money.

A Mistake.

"The hand that rocks the cradle" is the hand that moves the world.

"I beg your pardon. The hands that move the world are the storage company's hands."
